For 22 years I've run a successful freelance business working as a professional Producer, Production Manager, Location Scout and Photographer. I've travelled the world but am thrilled to live, work and play in the city I love, San Francisco, CA. Having extensive experience wearing all these hats over the years, gives me a unique perspective and complete ability to help make any project successful.

I've worked primarily in corporate communications, television and live events (see client list below). Generating a highly positive, efficient and fun production environment is key.

As a Producer and Production Manager... I'm well connected with the Bay Area production scene. From crew, locations and talent to animators, graphics designers and editors, I have the resources to ensure that the right people are hired to meet the individual needs of each project. I know how to run a tight schedule and manage a budget.

As a Location Scout and Location Manager... I've pulled location permits from many different cities and counties, locally and in greater California. I understand the complexities and logistics of what's needed to acquire the proper permits and get a job done well... whether that's working with crew or cops.

Currently I have a database of over 300 locations with photos, so I'm capable of facilitating most any need. I also know how to manage a crew on property to ensure a clean get-away!

As a Photographer... I've always been a Renaissance woman with many hobbies and passions. I think sculpting, painting, playing guitar, singing and being involved in the arts in general has culminated in my photography career.

Yes, I know how to take a photo, as many people do... but inherently, I can see that unique angle or capture a magic moment. I know how to make it comfortable for the person at the end of my lens, to get the most out of them. And even more importantly at times, I know how to edit the photos to get the most out of a final image.

I own a complete Canon 7D package and know it like it's my second set of eyes. I specialize in event photography and corporate conferences but also have a passion for food and product shoots and lifestyle photography.

And finally... On a personal note, for the past fifteen years I've been a member of the South End Rowing Club. I'm an avid open water swimmer and rower and swim in San Francisco Bay. Yes, it's cold.
