

Polarity Post Production

Polarity Post Production is a full service audio post production facility located in San Francisco's North Waterfront District.

Focusing on Television, Radio, Video Games, Film and Corporate Programming, our talented staff uses cutting edge technology to efficiently and creatively satisfy your needs.

With a long and distinguished history as San Francisco's premier audio facility, Polarity Post Production has earned a reputation for creative excellence in audio and continues to maintain the highest standards of technology that our clients depend upon.

Originally opened in 1986 under the "Music Annex" moniker, the studio has grown and evolved in the ensuing 19 years to accommodate a large client base and to develop a diverse portfolio of audio work. Everything from recording and mixing voiceovers for broadcast media and telephony prompts to producing audio for video games, episodic TV, and feature-length films has come through Polarity's door.
